

ACAAM National Didactic Session
Anti-Racism, Diversity, and Inclusion

October 14, 2020
2:00 – 4:00 pm ET

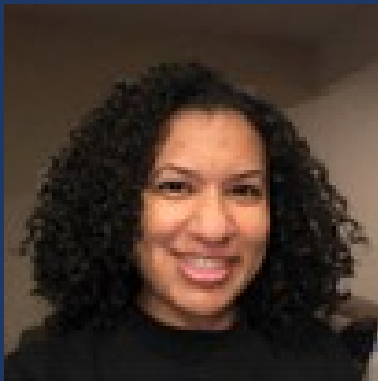

Speaker Bios

Harolyn M.E. Belcher, MD, MHS

Dr. Harolyn M. E. Belcher is a neurodevelopmental pediatrician and research scientist at Kennedy Krieger Institute. She is currently the Vice President and Chief Diversity Officer, director of the Office for Health Equity Inclusion and Diversity, and senior director of the Center for Diversity in Public Health Leadership Training. Dr. Belcher is jointly appointed in the Department of Pediatrics at Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine and the Department of Mental Health at the Johns Hopkins Bloomberg School of Public Health, holding the rank of full professor at the Johns Hopkins School of Medicine. Dr. Belcher received her Bachelor's of Science degree in zoology and medical degree from Howard University as a BS-MD Honors Program scholar. She received a Master's of Health Science focusing on mental health from the Johns Hopkins Bloomberg School of Public Health. Dr. Belcher was the director of research at the Center for Child and Family Traumatic Stress (CCFTS) at Kennedy Krieger Institute from 2003 to 2015. In 2015, she became the Director of the Center for Diversity in Public Health Leadership Training (Center for Diversity) and Associate Director of the Leadership Education in Neurodevelopmental and Related Disabilities (LEND) Program. As the Director of the Center for Diversity, Dr. Belcher and the Center for Diversity faculty created a national consortium of universities and institutions that provided clinical, research, and community engagement and advocacy public health experiences for over 600 diverse undergraduate and graduate scholars through funding from CDC, HRSA and Robert Wood Johnson Foundation. The Center for Diversity organizes and supports the annual Room to Grow: Journey to Cultural and Linguistic Competency Conference. Dr. Belcher serves on the National Academies of Sciences Board on Children Youth and Families and the Forum for Child Well-Being.

Camille Robinson, MD, MPH

Dr. Camille Robinson is a board-certified and public health pediatrician specializing in adolescent health and adolescent addiction medicine at Naval Medical Center San Diego. Raised in the Bay Area of California, Dr. Robinson then traveled across the country to attend Howard University for undergrad before coming back to California to complete her medical degree at UCSF. While at UCSF, she earned her Master's of Public Health degree at UC Berkeley where she develop a passion for research. She completed pediatric residency and adolescent medicine fellowship at Johns Hopkins University. Dr. Robinson combines her clinical interests with community and medical education, clinical research, and advocacy. Her work focuses on vulnerable populations and their families, including foster youth, justice involved youth, homeless youth, and youth experiencing poverty, trauma, and substance use disorders and focuses on how relationship networks shape health outcomes for these populations. When outside of work, she is also a self-proclaimed foodie and loves to meditate!